

Scott McVay

The author discusses his book "Surprise Encounters with Artists and Scientists, Whales and Other Living Things." The book invites readers to engage in provocative encounters with riveting explorers, whether artists or scientists, who have opened new ways for seeing the world and our place in it. McVay will focus on his inspiring encounters with scientists devoted to transformative change and will share his engaging stories about these internationally famous "path-finders." Community Room

Wed., March 30, 7 p.m.

HISTORY OF SCIENCE

The History of Science series is presented with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations expressed in this programming do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE Humanities

recommendations
expressed in this programming do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Opinions expressed during programming at Princeton Public Library do not necessarily reflect the views of the library, its staff, trustees or supporters

FRIENDS  Many programs are made possible through funds raised by the Friends of the Library

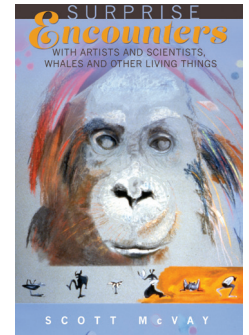

Promotional material created by the Office of Marketing and Communications at Princeton Public Library
PRINTED ON 100 PERCENT RECYCLED PAPER

Scott McVay

The author discusses his book "Surprise Encounters with Artists and Scientists, Whales and Other Living Things." The book invites readers to engage in provocative encounters with riveting explorers, whether artists or scientists, who have opened new ways for seeing the world and our place in it. McVay will focus on his inspiring encounters with scientists devoted to transformative change and will share his engaging stories about these internationally famous "path-finders." Community Room

Wed., March 30, 7 p.m.

HISTORY OF SCIENCE

The History of Science series is presented with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations expressed in this programming do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE Humanities

recommendations
expressed in this
programming do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Opinions expressed during programming at Princeton Public Library do not necessarily reflect the views of the library, its staff, trustees or supporters

FRIENDS  Many programs are made possible through funds raised by the Friends of the Library

Promotional material created by the Office of Marketing and Communications at Princeton Public Library
PRINTED ON 100 PERCENT RECYCLED PAPER