

Know Your News
MEDIA LITERACY WORKSHOP

with the Kentucky Center for Investigative Reporting

Amid debates about "fake news," citizens today have a wealth of news and information at their fingertips—from Facebook to blogs to traditional news outlets. But how can you be confident in what you read and share with others?

Journalists from Louisville Public Media's Kentucky Center for Investigative Reporting will share with you tools to become informed news consumers and better know which sources to trust.

Saturday, April 8 at 10:30 a.m.

Iroquois Library
Call (502) 574-1720 for more info.
601 West Woodlawn Avenue